

Warwick and Shaw Retain Doubles Tennis Championship of Narberth

DEFEAT KIRKPATRICK AND STAPLES IN THREE STRAIGHT SETS.
THEIR THIRD STRAIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP—W. D. R.
EVANS WINS HONORS IN CONSOLATION
SINGLES FINALS.

Messrs. Warwick and Shaw again proved their skill as a doubles team last Saturday afternoon, when they defeated Messrs. Kirkpatrick and Staples, in the finals of the 1920 doubles tournament of the Narberth Tennis Association. They won in three straight sets: 7-5, 6-1 and 6-4.

The "fans" were hoping for at least a 4 set match, and possibly 5 sets, but luck was against them. This is not to say, however, that Kirkpatrick and Staples did not do their best. They came mighty close to getting both the first and the third sets, but Warwick and Shaw were just a little too good for them in both instances. The second set went to Warwick and Shaw in quick and easy fashion, 6-1.

The winners played a brilliant game throughout and earned a well deserved victory. Time after time Kirkpatrick or Staples shot the ball over the net in a manner and direction that indicated sure points, only to have the ball come back with even more speed or cut or headed for an obscure, "out of the way" corner of the courts where Kirkpatrick and Staples "weren't."

This is the third year in succession that Warwick and our own "Man o' War" Walter have won the doubles championship. Last year they defeated Kirkpatrick and Staples in the finals, and in 1918 they defeated Ross and Justice in the finals.

In the finals of the consolation singles, W. D. R. Evans won from Frank Baer in three straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

The 1920 tournament is now practically complete except for the consolation doubles. This has been hanging fire for several weeks. Bailey and Edgerton have a 2-set lead and the score in the third set is 6-5 in their favor. The match will probably be finished on the third Tuesday after the first full moon following Thanksgiving Day. At all events, "Baron" Harris says, "We still have a chance!"

Members of the Tennis Association will be interested in the announcement that the tournament prizes will be awarded to the winners at the Dinner-Dance to be held in Elm Hall, Friday evening, November 19, no matter who is elected President! So, tennis players, keep that date open.

Community Club Luncheon

OCTOBER 26TH, AT 1 P. M., Y. M. C.
A. BUILDING—MRS. E. C.
BACHELOR OFFICIATES
AS CLUB'S NEW PRESIDENT.

The date is now at hand to which all Community Club women of Narberth have been eagerly looking for many weeks. This is the last day acceptances may be mailed to Mrs. E. H. Cockrill for a plate at this festive occasion. The tickets are only $1.00, and where could a woman get so much worth while mentally as well as physically for one dollar? It has been said that a dollar will not buy anything, but here is an afternoon when many times the value of a dollar may be had for only one.

If there is one event which stands out above all the many attractive programs of the year, it is the opening luncheon of the season, that is, when the members of the club are assembled after being scattered to various points of the country for their summer recreations. It is a time when they get renewed inspiration to do active club work, from the able speakers of the day.

The luncheon this year marks the beginning of the presidential term of Mrs. E. C. Batchelor. Last year Mrs. Batchelor presided on several occasions, due to the absence of the President. The club knows how ably she conducted the meetings at that time and will welcome her as its new President, giving the same support they have always given her in whatever capacity she may have officiated. Mrs. Batchelor is much beloved by the members not only for her executive ability and good judgment, but for the many other qualities she possesses which are necessary to successfully fill that chair.

Besides welcoming its new President, the club will have the pleasure of hearing the President of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Mrs. S. Blair Luckie; the President of the New Century Club of Philadelphia, Mrs. H. Prentiss Nichols, and the President of the Junior Club of Ridley Park, Mrs. Winfield Scott MacHenry.

The President of several other Federated Women's Clubs from Delaware, Philadelphia and Montgomery Counties will be guests of the day. Then there are to be greetings from Miss Jane Campbell, leader of the Monday morning class in Philadelphia; Mrs. Mary Rose Collins, former President of the Philadelphia Matinee Musical Club, and Mrs. R. J. Ralston, President of the Montgomery Clubs.

It is needless to say that the Hospitality Committee will spread a most delightful repast, and that the decorating will be as cheerful as ever. The Music Committee has also arranged to assist in the program.

Club members, do not miss this day of days.

October Council Meeting

The regular monthly meeting on the second Monday was held in Council Chamber on Monday evening, October 11, President Hall in the chair.

On account of the resignation of Mr. William S. Maddox, it was necessary to make re-appointments to permanent committees as follows:

The Highway and Sewers Committee reported getting estimates on replacing all old street signs which are badly worn, also signs to mark "dead end" streets; estimates to be submitted at next meeting.

The Council as usual despatched a quantity of routine business.

Narberth Community Club Represented at Harrisburg

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women was held in Harrisburg October 12 to 14. Mrs. E. C. Batchelor, Mrs. J. Mulholland and Mrs. H. A. Jacobs, from the Narberth Club, were three of the 501 delegates registered from the State.

On the eve of the convention Governor and Mrs. Sproul received the officers of the Federation, the delegates and officers of clubs at the Executive Mansion. Governor Sproul also addressed the convention in session.

Other persons of note who addressed the convention were: Hon. George A. Hoverter, Mayor of Harrisburg; Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, President of General Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. Thomas Finegan, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania; Dr. Frederick Rasmussen, Secretary of Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania; Hon. Gifford Pinchot, Commissioner of Forestry; Hon. W. I. Schaffer, Attorney General of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Maud Wood Park, chairman of the National League of Women Voters; Dr. Mary R. Noble, Pennsylvania State Board of Health, and Mrs. Bessie Leach Priddy, chairman of Civics, General Federation of Women's Clubs. Then there was the charming Mrs. Mary Ware Dennitt, of New York; Mrs. Franklin P. Jans, of Pittsburgh, who spoke on Legislation; Mrs. Harry M. Bremer, director of work for foreign-born women, of the National Y. W. C. A., and many other instructive talks were given and interesting reports made by the District Presidents and others.

The Wednesday evening session was held in the House of Representatives of the State Capitol, all other sessions were at the Messiah Lutheran Church. The convention closed with a dinner given at the Penn-Harris Hotel, at which 460 women were seated. The President of the State Clubs, Miss Florence M. Dibert, called upon several former State Presidents, who gave their experiences of former years, showing the growth of clubs during the past twenty-five years. Other social functions were the tea given by the Civic Club of Harrisburg at their most artistic club house, situated on the banks of the famous Susquehanna River, and the automobile rides given the morning following the banquet to various points of interest about Harrisburg. The Narberth delegates had the pleasure of riding in the same car in which the King of the Belgians rode when he visited Harrisburg.

Haverford Officers are Re-elected

At the annual meeting Tuesday of the Corporation of Haverford College at the Arch Street Meeting House all present officers of the corporation were re-elected with the exception that Richard D. Wood was chosen to sit on the Board of Managers in the place of the late Isaac D. Sharpless, who was until his death President of the college.

Four new members of the corporation were also elected. They are Justus C. Strawbridge, 2nd, Walter S. Hinchman, Ernest L. Brown and Thomas B. Whitson.

Howard Comfort, President of the college, read his annual report, in which

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate one hundred per cent. Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, State and Nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.—Preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion.

NEXT DANCE.

The next dance (masquerade) to be given by the Harold D. Speakman Post, 356, Narberth, will be held on Thursday evening, October 28th, in Elm Hall.

The Dance Committee is planning for a wonderful evening and the decorations will surpass any so far arranged.

OUR NEW HOME.

The carpenters have finished the enclosure of the western end of the building and the inside is now ready for painting.

We are planning to have everything finished and ready for the housewarming party on Armistice Day.

DUES TO BE THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

After hearing the report of the National Treasurer, which showed that the financial affairs of the Legion are now on a satisfactory basis, the convention voted that the national dues for the coming year should be the same as they were last year, one dollar per capita, which is to include subscription to the official magazine and to cover the operating expenses of National Headquarters.

It also voted that for any new member joining the Legion between October 1, 1920, and January 1, 1921, the dues shall be $1.25, which will pay the national dues of such member until December 31, 1921.

It also decided that all members whose 1921 dues have not been paid to the National Treasurer by February 28, 1921, shall be continued delinquent and their names accordingly dropped from the mailing lists of The American Legion Weekly.

THE SECOND NATIONAL CONVENTION.

The one predominant feature of the Second National Convention of the American Legion at Cleveland—the one thing above all others which will remain longest in the minds of all those who attended—was not a policy it outlined, not a resolution it passed, not an ideal it endorsed. It was its exalted manifestation of that spiritual presence which governs us upon earth, that inexplicable psychological fourth dimension which, while it is as omnipresent as the air we breathe, is so intangible that it cannot be expressed in words. It was the composite voice of the millions who have returned from war speaking in a tone which, could they have heard it, would have been approved by the one hundred thousand who did not come back.

W. R. D. Hall,
President of Council:

Several of the residents of Narbrook Park have asked me to express to the members of the Narberth Borough Council their appreciation of the installation of the lights within Narbrook Park.

They also wish to further appreciate the interest taken by the Committee on Fire and Lighting, of which Mr. Leitch is Chairman, and Mr. Gillis, of the Bala and Merion Electric Company, in placing the lights to the best interest of the Park and in working with us to so arrange them.

We are sending a copy of this letter to the Editor of Our Town with the hope that he will publish it.

An exceptionally well organized society has been perfected in Montgomery County to carry out the plans of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society, the county having been divided into 17 districts, with 126 sub-divisions or units. Every district has a chairman, who in turn is a member of the Executive Committee of the county body, thus giving every section representation on the committee that will formulate all important plans.

ARDMORE Y. M. C. A. HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Our Halloween Party is going to be the "Best Yet." To those who enjoy indulging in a unique social and innocent pastime, frivolities which mark the Halloween spirit and season, something would be missing without our annual Halloween Party. So it is coming on Friday evening, October 29. Why spoil the fun by telling all about it, according to the committee plans, here? There'll be an endless variety of costumes. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumed farmer and family from "Punkin' Holler," the most funny and refined dude, the most portly monk, and the best costumed person, regardless of vocation, station in life or calling. A grand march, music, dancing and cuts are other features of the occasion. Members and their friends are invited to participate. All are invited to witness the wonders.

Recently the Boys' Scout Troop of Narberth visited our building and enjoyed a good swim. We are always glad to welcome such groups. We desire to keep the people of the Main Line reminded that we are here for co-operative service, and that our work is with and for every member of the family—men, boys, women and girls.

Teacher: "That's the best drawing you have ever made."

Student: "Glad you like it."

Teacher: "I don't."—October Boys' Life.

EXTRA POLICE PROTECTION.

If persons living in Narberth who are going away for over night or longer, and closing up their homes, will leave word to that effect with Postmaster Haws, they will assist our Borough officials in rendering that kind of efficient police protection which our local authorities are particularly anxious to give the citizens of the Borough. Of course, if any one is to remain in the house over night or during the absence of the family, the case should not be reported to the Postmaster.

Given this kind of co-operation, our Borough officials are in a position to see that our residences are given the very best protection.

HAVERFORD OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED.

he said that the opening of the present year finds the college with the largest enrollment in its history, 209 students. The new system of physical education, which aims to have every student participate in some form of athletics, has been put in operation, he said. He said also that the major part of the endowment fund of $500,000, which the graduates of the institution are endeavoring to raise, has been pledged.

J. Henry Scattergood, Treasurer of the corporation, in his report pointed out that in spite of the additional expense incurred in raising the professors' salaries the institution has been able to come through the year reasonably well in a financial way. Asa S. Wing, President of the corporation, presided at the meeting.

HOUSING INTERESTS SUBURBAN LEADERS.

Some housing conditions along the Main Line are as bad as in some of the most crowded sections of Philadelphia, according to facts brought out at a meeting of the committees on health and sanitation of the Suburban Association of the Main Line, the purpose of which is to bring about co-operation for civic betterment of all the suburbs along the Pennsylvania Railroad from Overbrook to Paoli.

Small, crowded dwellings, many of which are insanitary, exist in Ardmore, Haverford, Bryn Mawr, Rosemont, Wayne, Devon and Berwyn, it was declared by township health officials and others who attended the meeting. Many of these houses are occupied by people who work on the big country estates and gentlemen's farms that lie on the outskirts of the suburban towns. Others are occupied by persons who work in shops, garages and other places in the towns.

These people will give their hearty support to any plan which will result in better housing, it was said. The majority of them, among them being many colored people, servants employed by wealthy families, are forced to live huddled together in unsanitary dwellings because there are no other places for them to live.

To relieve housing congestion will be the first step taken in the comprehensive plan for the betterment of the Main Line suburbs it was determined at the meeting.

"There is not much to tell yet," declared Major Alfred M. Collins, of Bryn Mawr, who acted as chairman of the meeting. "We are just starting. We know that bad housing exists and where it exists. The job now before us is to determine the best way to correct this condition."

"With that in mind we met to discuss ways and means; to hear suggestions and make comments on those suggestions. There is nothing to tell about that yet. When our plans are fully made we will be able to talk about them. But this we can say, knowing such conditions to exist the men in this association are the kind who will not give up until they are corrected."

Others who attended the meeting were: J. Heron Crossman, Jr., Dr. J. Howard Cloud, Col. Henry S. Spackman, Pierre Archer, Jr., Joseph H. Nash, Dr. Romaine C. Hoffman, E. C. Griswold, Dr. B. K. Willbur, President of the Lower Merion Township Board of Health; Dr. A. Lovatt Dewees, President of the Haverford Township Board of Health; Nathan Hayward and Charles W. Crist, Executive Secretary of the association.

BOARD OF GAME COMMISSIONERS

Suggestions by Pennsylvania Department of Forestry on Fall Planting of Walnut and Hickory Seeds.

The walnut family, which comprises the walnuts and hickories, contains some of the most important trees native to Pennsylvania. Two species of walnut and six species of hickory are native to Pennsylvania. All reach a large size, are attractive ornamentally, produce valuable wood, and yield delicious nuts which are used by man, and furnish food to many wild animals, especially squirrels. Because of their lumber value they have been cut so extensively that nature's supply of them is now waning rapidly. Hence, it is imperative that vigorous efforts be put forth to propagate these valuable timber and nut-bearing trees by planting their seeds on a large scale and by methods which will insure success.

The Black Walnut is one of the most valuable timber trees native to Pennsylvania. It yields delicious nuts which are produced in large quantities annually. Black walnut is a very exacting tree as to soil and location, preferring rich moist soil, and rather warm and low situations. It requires plenty of light, but will endure some shade while young. It does not thrive in the colder part of Pennsylvania nor on dry situations. Hence, great care should be exercised in selecting a suitable site for planting the seeds.

The Butternut does not attain so large a size, nor produce so valuable timber as the black walnut, but bears nuts which contain delicious sweet and oily kernels. The nuts are frequently preferred to black walnut by man, and by animals of the field and forest. It is found locally throughout the State in rich bottomlands, and on moist fertile hillsides, and will thrive better than the black walnut at higher elevation, and in the northern part of the State.

The Shellbark Hickory attains the largest size of the native hickories and produces the delicious nuts of commerce. It prefers rich moist soil such as is found along streams and about borders of swamps, but also flourishes on relatively dry, fertile soil. It is light demanding and will not thrive in dense stands unless it dominates the neighboring trees. This tree is a prolific seeder and may be propagated extensively, but should not be planted in the cooler mountainous parts of the State.

The Mockernut Hickory is a medium-sized tree which produces a fruit similar in appearance to the shellbark hickory, but upon opening the nut one always finds a small kernel. It is rare or absent in the northern part of the State and should only be planted in rather low fertile situations in the valleys and about the foothills of the mountains. The fruit is practically valueless to man, but furnishes satisfactory food for the animals of the forest.

The Pignut Hickory is the only im-

The above department should be of the greatest use to the community. The list contains the name of every professional man, tradesman, mechanic, shopkeeper, etc., who does or can in any way serve his fellow-townsmen, and who is progressive enough to add name to list of Register. As it is difficult for those contributing their time and efforts to the production of "Our Town" to personally either know or interview all such, it would be most helpful if those not now found in the printed list would send in a memo of their names, address, phone numbers and businesses or professions for listing. This will cost as follows: 10 cents each issue for 2 lines; 5 cents for each additional line portant species of the native hickories which thrives on dry ridges, hillsides, and mountain slopes. It will grow in all parts of the State on a great variety of soils. The fruit is variable in form, small in size, and the nuts contain small bitter kernels. This species may be planted in the mountains where no other hickories or walnuts will thrive.

Planting Time—The best time to plant the seeds of the walnuts and hickories is in the autumn as soon as the fruit is ripe and falls. The seed should be planted at once, for their vitality is impaired or destroyed if they are allowed to dry. If fall planting is not possible or not recommendable due to possible damage by squirrels or nut-eating animals, the seeds may be stratified in moist sand and kept until spring, when they may be planted.

What to Plant—Seeds should always be planted where the trees are expected to remain, for both hickories and walnuts are difficult to transplant on account of the long tap-roots which they develop during the first year. Even if great care is exercised in transplanting, the tap-root is frequently cut or injured to such an extent that the future growth of the tree is exceedingly impaired. The hulls of the seeds should be broken open or entirely removed.

Suitable Planting Sites—The best places to plant walnuts and hickories is in old abandoned fields, along fences, about camping sites, in by-places, and open spots in the forest. It is recommendable to select moist, fertile, and open sites. The latter condition is imperative.

Method of Planting—By means of a pick or similar implement, make a hole in the ground 2 to 4 inches deep. Space holes about 4x4 feet, drop one seed in each hole, and cover dropped nuts with about 2 inches of soil, tramping it down with the foot.

AMERICAN LEGION

In many ways was the second national convention of the Legion unique and without precedent. To it came men from every State and territory in the union—from every section of every State and Territory—and from those corners of the world where Americans are gathered in foreign lands. To it they came to reiterate the principles of the Legion, to further the carrying out of that basic idea of the Legion, service to comrade and country.

The parade along Cleveland's streets, led by thirty-one of America's greatest heroes and participated in by twenty thousand former service men, most of them in the O. D. and blue uniforms in which the training camps of this country and the towns and battlefields of France and the great highways of the ocean had known them two years before, was an impressive and a conclusive manifestation of strength and solidarity.

The convention proclaimed the principles which this strength and solidarity is dedicated to uphold, and it outlined the manner in which it will be utilized. There were differences of opinion upon the convention floor, differences which developed into long and heated debates. But they were differences over matters of detail and not of basic principle, and they merely showed the health, virility and determination of the convention and of the Legion. The final decision upon the adoption of all questions was made without exception in the best of good will, and in all instances personal, sectional and class interests were subordinated to the welfare of the entire organization and of the country.

The Cleveland convention was unquestionably representative of the entire membership of the organization. There can be no doubt that the timely and important decisions it made upon the questions of political neutrality, adjusted compensation, care of the disabled, the punishment of slackers, and other vital problems, which now become

THE LEGION'S FINANCES.

The annual report of the National Treasurer to the convention showed that the American Legion is on a sound financial basis.

At the close of the Legion's First National Convention at Minneapolis, the organization faced a deficit due to the expenses of organization of $134,941.63. With the assembly of the Second National Convention, the National Treasurer reported that not only had this deficit been wiped out but there was an actual surplus of $4,399.40 on hand, in addition to the sum of $209,349.40 reserved to insure the publication of The American Legion Weekly until December 31, 1920—an improvement in one year of $348,690.36 in the Legion's finances. Besides, it was stated, the trust fund of $392,633.63 given by the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. remains intact.

We want to start the dance promptly at 8.45, and have engaged the orchestra until 1 o'clock. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Legion or at Howard's Drug Store.

SCOUT TRAILS OF YESTERDAY AND TODAY.

Two moons ago I journeyed west—
At dawn along the snowy crest,
There in the soft new fallen snow,
I found the trail marks of a doe;
And there in the deep woods I spied
A buck with antlers branching wide.
The big trees made the light half dim—
I strung my bow and loosed at him—
But even as I loosed I knew
It was the Spirit Manitou.

My feathered shaft flew straight and true,
I thought it struck but it passed thro',
And when I ran to where it fell,
I found a war trail trodden well
By enemies on the march.

No need to tell my hurried flight
To warn the camp; and that same night
We fell upon the hostile band,
And harried them from out our land.
Across the frozen bottom there,
The battle raged.

Today when farmers plow that spot,
If you look closely, like as not
You'll find some relics of that fight;
For knife and spear were used that night,
And tomahawks were dropped in flight—
Where warriors fought.
